Introducing... The Second Stage Series!

CAPE MAY STAGE

ADVERTISING FEATURE

CAPE May Stage audiences are in for a special treat as Sandra Hartman performs her They Say It's Wonderful with musical director Mark Yurkanin this Saturday, July 25 at 10pm. Singing a wide range of standards and contemporary Broadway tunes, Hartman explores love songs of all genres, written by Jason Robert Brown, Frank Wildorn, Irving Berlin, Cole Porter and more.

This heartwarming cabaret has charmed Philadelphia audiences and is sure to cap off a beautiful summernight for Cape May theatergoers. Sandra Hartman is an actress and singer who has toured nationally as Aldonza in Man of La Mancha and Mrs Mullin in Carousel. She has also performed in many regional theatres.

Then on Monday July 27 at 8pm, famed NYC columnist Carrie Carmichael debuts her one-woman show You Never Know about her quirky, New Jersey-centric, prepared-for-everything Uncle Eddie! Cape May Stage audiences are sure to appreciate this homage to the Garden State, filled with humor and poignancy. Carrie Carmichael's performing credits range from an Off-Broadway production of Design Your Kitchen at the renowned Flea Theatre to stand-up comedy at Caroline's in New York City. Carmichael is an award-winning radio correspondent, broadcasting on the NBC Radio Network and WNYC Radio and author of several books.

The Second Stage Series at Cape May Stage presents a variety of entertainment to complement the mainstage season in an effort to keep the lights on at the Stage during traditionally dark days/nights. We aim to deliver high caliber talent to Cape Mays theatergoers every day/night of the week continues with the presentation of these two unique, highly engaging shows.

You will love hearing musical theater veteran Hartman's interpretations of classic songs and Carmichael's hilarious, yet moving, presentation.
